Seamless communication with Deaf people online and in person

Signalise creates human centred, all-user informed tech to ensure high quality, flexible communication with Deaf people.

Current translation, interpretation and communication solutions are often reliant on tech without the human element. We bring you both.

Our outstanding in-person, remote and on-demand video service is provided by high-quality communication professionals and supported by a customer service focused team alongside our bookings technology.

Founded by the Deaf community, Signalise brings together the best of advances in tech with a true understanding of what Deaf People and the Communication Professionals who work with them need.

Signalise systems include clever and thoughtful additions and functionality found in no other tech tools and involve Deaf users for the first time.

Signalise provides real time, in person and by video call interpreting and communication support 24/7/365.

Access is no longer a nice to have. It's a legal requirement and it's the right thing to do. Talk to us today to find out how we can help you do your business and deliver your services.

Loved by Deaf People, Communication Professionals, NHS staff and businesses

“Do you mean I can call my GP, any time, using an interpreter to make an appointment
and find out my blood test results too just like anyone else?”

“Deaf people are so much happier when I meet them
at appointments now they feel they have more control over their appointments as they are allowed to contact Signalise directly”

“Despite knowing a deaf person was an inpatient [a spoken language agency] left us without communication support....
Signalise has been the complete opposite, as soon as they know a deaf person is in hospital, they liaise with medical professionals and an interpreter turns up every day without us even having to think about it.”

Service providers and customers can book, cancel and receive notifications and
